COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed as a survey of some of the origins, influences, theories, processes, and manifestations of performative installation art. We will read, watch, and discuss perspectives on installation art written/created by artists, curators, art historians, and critics. We will view work by artists who consider themselves installation artists. Using this information as a springboard, we will create our own installations. Specifically, we will think about/discuss/experience:

- Influences / precursors to installation art forms and processes
- The relationship between installation art and popular culture and other art forms
- How installation art has become a means for exploring and debating issues of contemporary and political concern
- How installation art utilizes the elements and principles of four-dimensional design (including sound/movement/time/space)
- How the work of installation artists, historians, theorists, curators, and critics can be useful to our own artistic practices
- How our work relates to current thinking about installation theory and practice

We will encounter frustrations as we deal with unexpected road-blocks, and create workarounds that fit within our timeline. These are important skills to practice, as you will do the same when you leave school and enter the world of professional artistic practice. Our weekly discipline will include discussion, active installation creation/viewing, sketchbook entries, and scheduled readings/writings. It is important to know you do not have to be a trained or experienced performer or installation artist to participate in this course. However you must be willing to explore how this medium allows you to develop and refine your artistic practice, regardless of your preferred artistic medium. Please note that an instructor cannot force the effort required to practice art. It must come from a desire and aptitude for struggle. Dedication and willingness to create will ensure your success in this class.

INTENDED STUDENT COMPETENCIES & OUTCOMES

Students who successfully complete this course will have:

1. Basic knowledge and understanding of the vocabulary surrounding performative installation art and its history, as well as enhanced fluency of visual and time-based language, and the ability to use that language in both their artistic practice and critique
2. Analytical skills in determining what elements and principles of design (2/3/4D) are employed in a given installation
3. Developed a cursory understanding of their own performative installation sources and influences
4. Refined skills in experimenting with unfamiliar media
5. Read about and reported on how other artists utilize performative installation media
6. Discipline to work effectively both in and out of class (timeliness & focus)
7. Increased ability to critically analyze each other's work as well as their own

NOTES ON RESPECT:

The work created in the course may be of a personal and/or controversial nature. Please respect your colleagues and give their work your best attention. If you disagree with an installation or its content, remember that when engaging with others' work you must be a responsible and professional critic and as such must work to make your criticism constructive and descriptive.

BLACKBOARD
